PROGRAMME REPORT

Name of the Programme	: Transition of Graduates to Employee: Problems and Challenges
Name of the resource Person	: Samuel Anandraj. S, Business Development Manager
Date	: 30.09.2021
Time	: 10.00 am
No. of Participants	: 112

One of the major challenges identified during the workshop was the expectation gap between graduates and employers. Graduates often have unrealistic expectations regarding job roles, responsibilities, and remuneration, which can lead to disappointment and frustration. Employers, on the other hand, sometimes have unrealistic expectations of graduates' skills and experience. Bridging this gap requires effective communication, realistic job previews, and internships or mentorship programs. The workshop emphasized the need for educational institutions to focus on practical skill development alongside theoretical learning. Participants discussed the importance of internships, apprenticeships, and industry collaborations to provide hands-on experience and bridge the gap between academia and industry requirements. The transition from a university environment to a professional workplace culture can be challenging for graduates. Graduates often struggle with navigating their career paths and finding opportunities for growth and advancement. The workshop acknowledged the emotional and mental challenges faced by graduates during this transitional phase. It was recommended that educational institutions and employers prioritize mental health support, counseling services, and mentorship programs to help graduates cope with these challenges effectively.

Programme Outcomes:

The workshop on "Transition of Graduates to Employee: Problems and Challenges" shed light on the various hurdles faced by recent graduates as they enter the professional world. By addressing the expectation gap, enhancing practical skills, facilitating adaptation to work culture, promoting professional development, and prioritizing emotional well-being, stakeholders can better support graduates during this critical transition. It is crucial for educational institutions, employers, and graduates themselves to collaborate and implement strategies to smoothen this transition process and ensure long-term success in their careers.
